The Oxford County Citizen

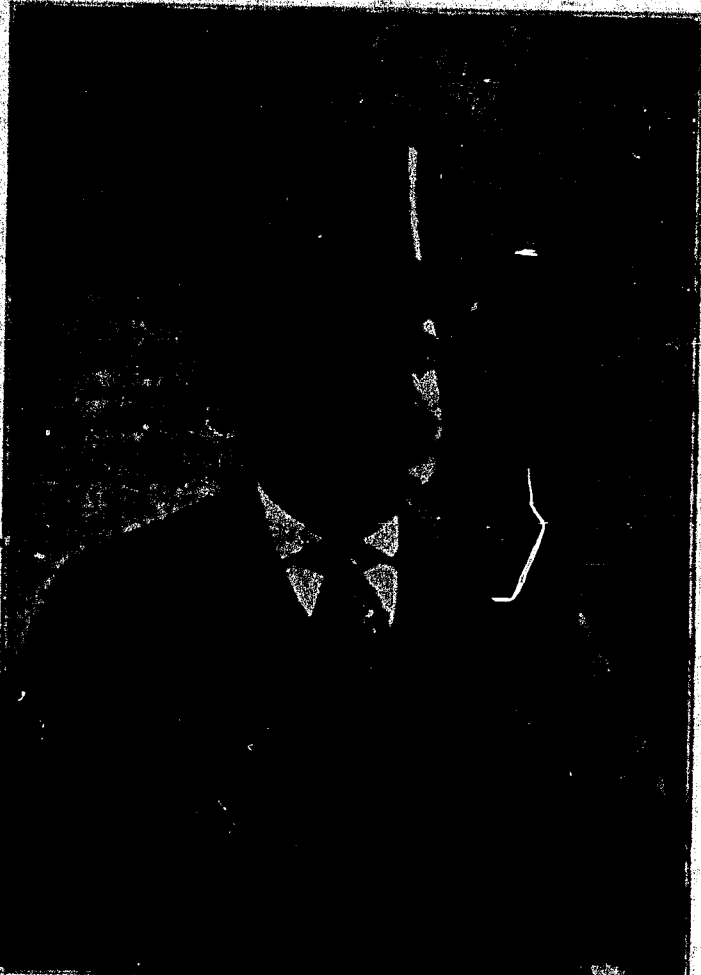

VOLUME XVI.—NUMBER 15.

BETHEL, ME.,—RUMFORD, ME., THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1910.

$1.50 IN ADVANCE.

SUDDEN DEATH OF ALMON T. ROWE.

At His Summer Home in Bethel, Sunday Morning.

THE LATE A. T. ROWE.

The people of Bethel were shocked Sunday morning to learn of the sudden death in the early morning of Mr. Almon T. Rowe at his summer residence on Broad street.

Mr. Rowe has suffered more or less during the past few years from a heart weakness and several serious attacks have served as warnings to him as to what the end would be.

During the past week he has been as well as usual and retired Saturday night in good spirits, but awoke shortly past midnight in a depressed condition and the end came almost without warning. Dr. Tibbette was summoned but life was practically extinct before he arrived.

Mr. Almon T. Rowe was born in Bethel, April 6, 1836, the son of Caleb and Abigail Plummer Rowe. He was one of many Bethel sons who was led by circumstances to leave his native town and seek a fortune elsewhere which seemed denied him here. In 1848, feeling that the world had a larger place for him than could develop in his home village, there came a burning desire in his heart to seek after it; to this end he hired $9 at 7 per cent interest from Mr. R. A. Chapman, Bethel's money man, and set out for Boston. Seven dollars of this amount was spent for a ticket to the "Hub", leaving him with a capital of $2 with which to begin his new life and career in a big city among strangers. He was fortunate in securing a position in a shoe store in Roxbury where he received a salary of $3 per week. This situation was abandoned at the end of six weeks and another one secured in a grocery store where he remained two years, at the end of which time he formed a partnership with A. J. Houghton as Houghton & Rowe. This business was continued very successfully for a period of five years when Mr. Rowe purchased the interest of the senior partner and continued the business as sole owner until September, 1897, when he too retired.

After retiring from business he purchased a residence, The Elmhurst, on Broad street, where he with his family has since spent several months each summer enjoying the associations of his old friends and neighbors as well as the pleasant and ennobling environment of his boyhood village. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Clouston of Roxbury.

ODEON HALL NEVER HELD

Such an Audience Before as the One

Which Greeted Miss Jane Addams Friday Evening.

It would not be exaggeration to say that never before in the history of Bethel has there ever come together under one roof on any occasion, an audience possessing as a whole such a degree of intelligence and culture as the one which greeted Miss Jane Addams in Odeon Hall last Friday evening.

Miss Addams, who has been spending her summer in Bethel, kindly consented to address our citizens in the interests of the Bethel Library Association. The news of this consent was quickly carried far and wide with result, as intimated, that on Friday evening Odeon Hall was packed to the doors by those fully appreciating the fact that a unique privilege, that of listening in their own home town to an address by the foremost woman of America, was theirs to enjoy.

The hall presented an appearance in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, for the trustees of the Library Association, who never do things at halves, had decorated the platform by the means of evergreen, wild flowers and potted plants giving it a most pleasing appearance. After music with Miss Elsie Hall at the piano, Fred E. Hanson, President of the Board of Trustees, introduced the speaker with the following words:

"It is our great good fortune to have with us this evening the most active and powerful promoter of social settlement work in the United States. By the establishment and also administration of that famed institution, known as Hull House, as well as by her writings and addresses, upon sociological subjects, she has attracted the attention and won the admiration of reading and thinking people throughout the world. Unlike the prophets of old, who were not without honor, save in their own land, her own country was quick to recognize her worth, and its great institutions of learning have honored themselves in honoring her. Seeking a quiet retreat, where she might be able to carry on uninterrupted literary work, she came up here among these Oxford hills to our own beautiful Bethel, and has further honored the town and its people by consenting to speak to us this evening of her life-work. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to this audience, Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago.

The speaker was greeted with generous applause and in the short time at her disposal gave us her interesting and impressive way the story of Hull House and the work which it is doing in the city of Chicago. Without attempting to give a verbatim report of Miss Addams' address, but assuming that many of our readers are not fully aware of the purpose and scope of the work which is accomplished by and through her we will give an outline of this work as summarized from her address:

Hull House was the outgrowth of the idea that the mere foothold of a house easily accessible, ample in space, hospitable and tolerant in spirit, situated in the midst of the large foreign colonies which so easily isolate themselves in American cities, would be a serviceable thing for the city of Chicago.

It was established in 1889. No legal organization existed for the first five years but at the end of the time Hull House was incorporated with a board of seven trustees. The object as stated in the charter is "To provide a center for a higher civic and social life; to institute and maintain educational and philanthropic enterprises, and to investigate and improve the conditions in the industrial districts in Chicago."

Hull House is located on Halsted street, one of the longest streets in Chicago and settled largely by foreign people. This house was built and originally occupied by Mr. Hull who disposed of it to the present occupants because of the great influx of foreigners. The original Hull House has been supplemented by other buildings until the Hull House settlement today consists of thirteen buildings.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Schools throughout the town of Bethel will begin on Monday, September 25th.

Per Order H. H. Hastings, Supt. of Schools.

CELEBRATION AT CANTON,

In Honor of St. Rocco,

Thursday, August 19.

5,000 People to See Sports and Fireworks.

The celebration in honor of St. Rocco was certainly a grand success. There were 3000 people on the grounds during the day and 2000 more to see the fireworks in the evening. The clouds of the morning early burned away and the day was fair until sunset, when the sky again became overcast, but this only made the fireworks show off to a better advantage. This was Mr. Marco Lavorgna's sixth celebration and it proved to be the largest and best.

Mr. Lavorgna always gives everybody their money's worth. On the program, Thursday, were three ball games which occupied the entire day. The teams were the best in Maine and the players were out for a big prize. Besides the baseball which commanded the greatest interest were two horse races, the parade in honor of St. Rocco, a band concert afternoon and evening, field sports, motorcycle and bicycle races and all the fun of being there. Into the baseball Mr. Lavorgna put $150; into the fireworks $1000; into the horse racing, $400 and into the other sports equally generous prizes.

BASE BALL.
Two-thirds of the people on the grounds just fed on base ball. The first game began at 10 A. M. Playing was continuous from then until 5 P. M. with no stops for refreshments. It was served for soup course, for the roasts, vegetables, entrees and dessert. Northern Oxford county saw baseball enough to last until next St. Rocco's day.

Four teams were entered, the Pilgrims of Lewiston, Mechanics Falls, Dixfield, and Rumford. There were three games, each for a purse of $25, $30 to the winner and $20 to the loser so that everybody was sure to get something and the best team was sure to make a good day's work. The best ball players in Maine were corralled for the occasion.

Dixfield and Rumford played first, Dixfield winning by the score, 6 to 3. It was a close, exciting contest with lots of rivalry on both sides in which the fans took a decided interest. Both teams played well and the runs were made so as to keep the result uncertain until the last inning.

At the beginning of the ninth inning the score was 5 to 4 in Rumford's favor, Rumford was about out. For Dixfield Pike was up. He was passed, went second on Richardson's single, stole third and scored on a past ball. Richardson stole second and later scored. The next three men were out.

Having had the game within their grasp during the first four innings, and having then lost it and won it again, Dixfield's enthusiasm knew no bounds. The old rivals, Pilgrims of Lewiston and Mechanics Falls came onto the field before the Dixfields and Rumford's had left it. These teams were recognized and a great battle was anticipated.

In the second inning the Pilgrims scored three runs which sent their stock up. Sports were offering $5 to $3 and from that to $5 to $1 that Lewiston would win. When Mechanics Falls ran in a couple of tallies in the seventh, some of the Lewiston money was cornered and when in the ninth, Mechanics fielded the score, friends of that team were offering odds.

REPUBLICAN RALLY AT MEXICO.

This vicinity is strongly republican—more strongly than ever. The biggest republican rally ever held in this town was held here recently when John P. Swasey and George D. Bibeau spoke.

Over 600 attended it in the grove. They came from miles around. It was very enthusiastic. After the meeting many democrats announced their intention of voting the straight republican ticket. One life-long democrat said "I am not going to vote against my interests as a farmer. Manufacturers don't vote against their interests. Things are coming our way just now and I am going to vote for the dollar in the bag."

DEMOCRATIC RALLY At Rumford Last Friday Evening.

Colonel Plaisted Speaks to Large Audience.

The Democratic rally which was held in Rumford last Friday evening, was from the Democratic standpoint a big success, at any rate it was well attended. Fred is a jolly good fellow and it does a whole lot of folks heaps of good to shake hands with him and get one of those smiles which he hands out with so much grace and stately mien. Mathew McCarthy, candidate for County Attorney, introduced the speaker, while on the platform was seated several prominent democrats, including B. G. McIntire of Waterville and Y. A. Thurston of Andover.

Mr. Plaisted spoke for over an hour, his remarks being greeted by much applause. Extravagance was his chief war cry as it has been in all places. He paid excellent tributes to the various Democratic county candidates and to Dan Mac the oft running candidate for Congress.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The political pot is boiling. One of the liveliest state campaigns in the history of Maine is on. The public is seeking enlightenment concerning issues and men and we shall expect a multitude to improve the opportunity of listening to two of the most able and fair minded men in Maine next Friday evening in Odeon Hall, Bethel. These gentlemen are Congressman John P. Swasey and Hon. Wm. T. Haines of Waterville, who on Jan. 1, 1913 will be inaugurated Governor of Maine. We are more or less familiar with Mr. Swasey and are always glad to hear him. Our people all know Mr. Haines by reputation and some of us know him to be one of the best public speakers in Maine. We are indeed fortunate to be thus blessed this year and we trust that the hall will be filled to the doors.

NORWAY CAMP FIRE.

A party of twelve left Bethel on the nine o'clock train Wednesday morning to attend a camp fire held at the Grange Hall, Norway, Maine.

There were nine Corps and Posts represented including O. M. Knight Corps, North Waterville; W. K. Kimball Post and Ladies of the O. A. U., South Paris; Z. L. Packard Post and Corps of Hebron; Brown Post and Corps of Bethel; T. A. Roberts Post and Corps of Oxford also the Spanish War Veterans of Norway.

The day was a perfect one and the people arrived in large numbers. A very pleasant forenoon was spent in looking about the new Grange Hall which had been decorated for the occasion with stars and stripes.

We were all marshaled down to the dining room by the bugle call and the strains of Tournament, where a most delightful dinner had been prepared. The tables looked magnificent, decorated with bouquets of flowers and small flags. The dinner could not have been better as it consisted of baked beans, meats, coffee, salads, pastry of all kinds and ice cream. Much credit is due the W. R. C. Ladies of Norway as being excellent cooks.

After dinner we all assembled in the hall up stairs to listen to the program which had been most delightfully prepared as follows: Prayer was offered by Rev. A. W. Moulton, solo, "I Have No Other Sweetheart But You, My God White and Blue," by Mrs. Eva Willis, a solo, "Sunlight Land," by Marjorie Barker; piano duet, Howard and Eddie Chick, solo, Beril Millett, "Why He Wouldn't Sell the Farm," by Mrs. Mae R. Barlett of Bethel, A. J. Stearns gave some interesting facts of the war and religion. Remarks were made by A. J. Holden also Colonel W. T. East.

Much credit should be given to the committee of the Post, Corps and Ladies of the O. A. U. It was a very successful camp fire and enjoyed by all. Exercises closed by all singing Amer. etc.

A Hard Drinker.
"Does he drink like a fish?"
"No; he drinks like a camel at the end of eight days."

CORN SHOP AT BETHEL.

Mr. S. C. Whitman of Halifax, N. S., has arrived in Bethel and will have the management of the corn packing. This is Mr. Whitman's eighth season and he expresses himself as well pleased with the condition of the corn and says the farmers are to be congratulated upon the amount of acreage which is more than 100 acres, many new planters being upon the list of patrons. He has been successful in procuring his crew to run the shop; many of the crew having had experience for several years. There are a few vacancies to be filled. The shop will probably begin operations September 25th to 10th. A new boiler has been put in and all the machinery put in first class order and everything indicates a successful season.

PRINCE RUPERT, A MINING CENTRE.

There are few recorded instances of a railroad grade over cutting a mineral vein of any value, so far the main line of the G. T. P. is no exception, but the district which it traverses is every day looking up into great and greater importance. The coast formation has never proved prolific of mineral wealth, but 100 miles from Prince Rupert the line enters a new field. A belt of mineralized rock, starting at the Portland Canal, running through the head waters of the Nass, crosses the Skeena River about the Kitchikan Canyon and extends into the interior through the hills at Hazelton and the Babine and Hudson Bay mountains. The extent of the zone is unknown. Prospectors have only touched it in spots, but these spots have shown wealth incalculable. The immense area of this ore body can only be appreciated by those who have travelled over it. The future of the Portland Canal is an assured thing now. The same is known to exist on the Nass, while late last fall, discoveries were made in the vicinity of the Kitchikan Canyon, which when developed and explored farther, will no doubt show very considerable ore body. These discoveries were made too late in the season to prove much more than that ore of good quality existed in the district, covering considerable area. Silver, lead and copper are the chief minerals found; but all ore in the district carry gold values, roughly speaking of from $1 to $40. Some even go higher than this.

At Hazelton, 180 miles from Prince Rupert, and on the line of the G. T. P. railway, the existence of a magnificent ore has been demonstrated by the strike on the Silver Cup, a property on Nine Miles Mountain. Ninety six inches of solid steel galea ore is surely sufficient assurance that Nine Miles at least will be productive of much wealth. Work on the Little group, owned by James Cronin of Spokane, has progressed most favorably all winter. A tunnel of 325 feet has revealed cross veins, which had itself attained run to tap the main vein, which was 8 feet across. This tunnel was being expected to be reached at 400 feet. On Hudson Bay Mountains, which lie just across the Bulkley valley from the Babine range, prospects have been struck and developed to the shipping point. The lakeview group, overlooking the railroad and only six miles distant from it, shows gray copper and free gold. This likewise is a silver lead property. Five tons of galea ore were shipped from the Cronin group which gave smaller returns of $100 per ton in gold, silver and lead. This was five years ago. With the shipping facilities the railroad will give, it is estimated by conservative mining men that much of this ore can be loaded at the smelter at Prince Rupert for a cost of $4 per ton, approximately. It only requires the completion of the railroad to throw open a mining territory of immense possibilities. Prince Rupert, B. C.

STRUCK A RICH MINE. N. W. Bonds, of Coal City, Ala., says he struck a perfect mine of wealth in the King's New Life Bible for they found lots of lives and happy homes after 10 years of suffering. They are the best gifts on earth for Christians. Malvern, Houghton, Houghton, Houghton. See at the Bethel of Bethel Falls.

How About the Student? I notice lots of college boys around town. Yes, the military vacation is on. There are three midwinter wars. These wars interfere seriously with a boy's college work. Not at all. The football season is over and it's too early for track work.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

SUCCESS.

"The man has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children, who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved hobby, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who never lacked appreciation of beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory was a benediction."

The little sharp vexations
The briars that catch and fret;
Why not take them to the Helper
Who has never failed us yet?
Tell him about the heart ache
And tell him the longings too,
Tell him the baffled purpose,
When we scarce know what to do.
Then leaving all our weakness,
With the one divinely strong,
Forget that we bore the burden
And carry away the song.

TROUBLE IN THE CHURCH.

There was trouble in the church, just what about 'twas hard to tell,
But the brethren in anything but unity
did well;
Hard words were passed on every band
and lifelong friendships broken, Till of Christian love and charity there was neither sign nor token.

Then teachers quit the Sunday school and singers left the choir,
And Elder Brown, in public, called Deacon Jones a liar;
And brother hated brother, and things
grew worse each day;
Till Satan seemed to rule the church with undisputed sway.

Of course each side was certain that they were in the right,
And each side was determined to the bitter end to fight;
At length the evening came around on which the congregation
One way or another should decide the fatal complication.

And as officers and members filed in and took their places,
Fixed stubbornness and haughty pride
marred many genial faces;
And the young men in the gallery commented on the scene
With many a careless word and jest, less godly far than keen.

And the powers of sin and evil must have looked on in delight,
And if the blessed angels weep they must have wept that night,
For the mine was charged with hatred and the train was laid in pride,
And it needed but an angry word and the match would be supplied.

Then quietly a stranger rose, with air subdued and meek,
And in a low and trembling voice asked leave that he might speak;
Which being granted him, he turned and faced the brethren there;
His head was white as driven snow and lowed with age and care.

"Most forty years ago," he said, "our church had trouble, too, Then I was young and strong and proud, just like the most of you;
Our side was bound to have their way;
for we knew that we were right;
But the others, they were just as sure,
and we had a bitter fight.

"And cruel words were spoken, and spiteful deeds were done, Such words and deeds as Christians, as brethren should shun;
The bands of love were broken that before our hearts had knelt In Christian peace and fellowship; and at last our church was split.

"I had a son," the old man's voice we now could hardly hear,
And with his trembling hand he wiped from his withered cheek a tear;
"I had an only son," he said, "a lad
as bright and fair,
Just pointing to the gallery—'like some of you up there.

"Before the trouble came he had the way of life been seeking,
And he had almost given his heart into the Ravine's keeping.
But when the light began I seemed to clean forget his state,
And when 'twas over, then I found that I'd thought of him—too late.

"For when I spoke to him of God, and of eternity,
He laughed a little scornful laugh, and
'guess he'd wait and see.'
I tried most hard to save him, for I loved him more than life,
But he answered ever with some jest about our 'Christian strife.'"

The old man's head bent lower, and his tears ran down like rain,
And in that congregation few could their tears restrain,
So still they were, his broken words to all were audible:
"I buried him ten years ago—and—he died—an—infidel."

The trouble in the church is past, and a work of grace begun,
And it started with the story of the aged stranger's son;
For the leaders in the fight joined hands before the congregation,
And pledged themselves to God anew
in joint reconsecration.

Sunday was a great day for the Polish residents of Rumford, including as it did a celebration of St. Rocco's Day. A special train brought the Dominican band and a large delegation of the Polish fraternity from Lewiston, and those with the local order, Draughts Brothers, headed by the Rumford Falls band marched on to St. Athanasius church. After the service, which was conducted by a priest from Boston, a long parade was given, the 300 or more men making an impressive and well drilled parade, one of the best seen in town.

Miss Eva Swain of Plymouth avenue gave a delightful lawn social, Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Lydia Abbott, whose marriage to John McIlroy is an event of the late fall, and Miss Grace Welch, whose marriage to Arthur Mansur will take place in September. Tissue paper umbrellas were constructed for the first of the afternoon, Miss Grace Swain declaring Miss Grace Carson the winner in this contest and giving her a souvenir for her skill. The two brides-elect were then taken to a bay each in which were concealed a miscellaneous assortment of lovely linen, china and cut glass. Miss Grace Swain of New York city poured coffee on the piazza, and other delicious refreshments were served.

In honor of Miss Grace Welch, a shower was given recently at the home of Charles Abbott of East Rumford, by his daughter, Miss Evelyn Abbott and Miss Lydia Abbott. The guests were Mrs. Bertha Welch, Misses Eva Swain, Grace Young, Jennie and Anna Farum, Margaret McKenzie, and Mrs. Phil Lovejoy. Games were enjoyed during the early part of the afternoon, and a delicious lunch was served in the dining room which was beautifully decorated. The menu included fruit salad, bread and butter, vanilla ice cream with hot chocolate syrup, cake, hot chocolate, Scottish fancies, and salted nuts, and a large layer cake, decorated and with the word "Grace" spelled out by the candies. The place cards, pen and ink sketches, the work of Miss Cora Bishop, represented the different phases in the courtship. The centerpiece on the table was a bridal couple in miniature standing under a floral arch. Later, the young people adjourned to the parlor, where Miss Lydia showed Miss Welch with miscellaneous articles, including lace, cut glass, silver and china.

Jes' Lookin' On

Seems to me, jes' lookin' on, that things is travelin' fast, Tain't half so easy livin' as in the good old days that's past.
We used to slow up then awhile, an take a little rest,
An' git a taste of things we folks accounted best.
Mebbe I'm a bit too slow for this new century rush,
But I long for flower meadows and the woodland's gentle hush
Away off in the valleys where the flowers softly bloom,
Where there ain't no rush an' hustle
an' there's always plenty room.
Seems to me, jes' lookin' on, we are carryin' too much steam;
Better hug the shores awhile, than get out in the stream:
It's far safer in the by-ways than along the crowded street, Where you're jostled an' you're hustled by every one you meet.
Mebbe life's a hustle, jes' to always race for gold,
But there's better things for nothin'
that can't be bought or sold;
Ain't so long to be here, if you goin'
to take you better give,
An' seems to me, jes' lookin' on, that's the better way to live.

TOMMY HAWK.

IN THESE DAYS when women do not seek to marry, and men find single blessedness most desirable, the question of how to preserve harmony in the matured family is important. It is a far easier matter to preserve happiness in a growing family which is elastic and buoyant and busy with its own diversion. But with maturity and age each character hardens. The personal tastes and opinions become fixed and toleration for others often is lacking because each member of the family feels without admitting it that the very existence of the other member limits his own possibilities.

Household Notes.

Always heat new iron, such as ranger, very gradually at first, as this will prevent cracking.

When making ginger snaps add a teaspoonful of vinegar and see what an improvement it will make.

If mustard is made with boiling water with a little salt added, it will not dry and cake in the mustard pot.

A few drops of coal oil added to the water with which windows are to be washed will save time and labor.

To remove hatch marks from a polished surface, first rub with a cut lemon, then with a rag dipped in clear water.

Peanut butter is made by grinding
in a nut-grinder fresh roasted peanuts, which have been shelled and have had the brown skins removed.

Water should never be used on burning oil, as it spreads the flame. Dry and should be used, as this extinguish-es the flame immediately.

Silver spoons which have been stained by medicine may be cleaned by rubbing with sulphuric acid; wash with soap and then with clean water.

Always pour a little boiling water into the mixing pan and cover it for a few minutes. The steam will soften the dough so that it will readily wash off.

During the summer outing turnover collars may be washed in a bowl and dried by wrapping them around a glass fruit jar, pressing each little point while wet.

A syrup made of granulated sugar and hot water will be found an improvement on just the plain sugar for sweetening ice tea, in which sugar of tea does not melt.

Do not lay the scrubbing brush with the bristles upward. The water is allowed to soak into the wooden part and the bristles very soon become loose.
Always place it with the bristles down.

If a teaspoonful of concentrated lime with a cup of water be put in a bottle whose contents have been on the bottom, and left to stand for a few hours, there will be no trouble in removing the burned substances.

A FEW REMARKS TO WIVES.

The material, strong-minded woman who starts married life with the main idea that she is going to be mistress in her new home, and manage its affairs as she thinks best irrespective of the opinions of the man she marries, will in nine cases out of ten, wreck the happiness of that home in less than twelve months. There never was a more mistaken or foolish policy on the part of a woman.

It is true that she herself may derive a certain amount of pleasure from her domineering ways or satisfaction from the ability to boast of her power, in the event of marrying a man weaker than herself, who allows himself to be henpecked. But it is very poor enjoyment when compared with the happiness of the woman who lives in true harmony with her husband. It is even worse when the masterful woman marries a man who, while not allowing himself to be henpecked in any way, considers it best for the happiness and comfort of both himself and his wife to keep away from the domestic hearth as much as possible, and who, therefore proceeds to spend the greater part of his spare time at the local club, or with boon companions. This promptly brings forth an accusation of neglect from the wife herself and the home, ignoring altogether the fact that she herself is responsible for the state of affairs.

It is well, perhaps, when the masterful woman marries a man whose will is stronger than her own, and who insists on being master of all things in his own home. In such a case, there are few better chances of both ultimately enjoying great happiness in their married life. For, as a rule, the strong-minded man is not as unreasonable as the masterful woman. He is willing to consider his wife's opinion, so long as she recognizes his right as master. But once let a strong-minded man get the idea into his head that his wife is trying to "rule the roost," as the saying goes, and he will prove as obstinate as a mule in thwarting her wishes.

The best way for a wife to rule her husband is to take care, in the first place, that she never loses his love.

Handling Her One.

"Would it make you so happy if you had an auto?"

"No."

"And still you want one?"

"Certainly I do, dear."

"Then why?"

"Just think how unhappy I will make the girl who is always bragging that she could have married you!"

A Popular Pastime.

Little Ethel was prattling in her aimless way, and sister Maude was naturally quite unresponsive. "Papa," said little Ethel, "do you remember the trip we made to grandma's last week?"

"Yes," replied her father, absentmindedly.

"In the tram?" persisted little Ethel.

"Yes."

Sister Maude yawned. She had been up later than usual the previous evening, and the evidence of her weariness could not be suppressed.

"Do you remember," continued little Ethel, "what the conductor said?"

"Yes," answered the father.

"He said," asserted little Ethel,
"that if you didn't want to pay for me you'd have to take me in your lap and let someone else have my seat."

"I remember," said the father.

"Oh, nothing much!" replied little Ethel. Only I think sister Maude and that young man who's going to be my new brother were playing trans with me."

"Ethel," sharply broke in sister Maude, who had aroused herself "go to bed at once!"

LOCAL HISTORY.

Much information can be gleaned from examinations of maps of Maine.
The Charles Morris map dated Boston,
August 16, 1740, is dedicated

"To his Excellency William Shirley Esq., Captain General and Commander-in-Chief, in and over his Majesty's Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England and Vice Admiral of the same," that accompanies the "Pole Journal" (which was published in 1895), is a fine piece of work considering the date of the original production.
It represents the Province of Maine as extending from Portsmouth to the Kennebec river, then over the "Sagadahoc, or Duke of York's Property," to the St. Croix river. (Eastport) A note states that some of the land in the south west corner of Sagadahoc had been granted, but the rest was a "vast wilderness." The Province of Maine is represented as extending about half way back from the ocean to Canada but Sagadahoc goes clear back to the Canada border line.

In 1804 an "Atlas of Maine" was presented to the public. Its mechanical appearance is of the first order. It presents the outlines of the six counties as they existed at that time, as follows: York, Cumberland, Lincoln, Kennebec, (back of Lincoln) Hancock and Washington. All running back to Canada excepting Lincoln. The last three are represented as more than twice as wide as York and Cumberland respectively.

In 1814 a "Map of the World" containing fifty-eight plates was presented to the public, but strange to relate, Oxford County does not appear on the plate representing Maine. The dividing lines are colored and the mechanical work is very neatly done.

At this time Moses Greenleaf Jr.
entered the field of map making and is now known in history as "Maine's First Map Maker." In the year of 1802 Judge Edgar C. Smith of Fox-croft, a descendant, raised a memorial stone to Mr. Greenleaf in the form of a printed, bound volume of one hundred and sixty-five pages.

Moses Greenleaf Jr. was born in Newburyport, Mass., Oct. 17, 1777.
In 1790 his parents removed to New Gloucester, this State, where his father engaged in farming and where he died.

Mr. Greenleaf's oldest brother named Simon became an associate judge of the court of Common Pleas, first reporter of decisions, author of standard works on jurisprudence, and erected the large, three story, wooden house corner of Elm and Cumberland Streets,
Portland, now used as a hotel.

Jonathan became a minister of the gospel and author, writing the ecclesiastical history of our State, a standard work of merit.

Ebenezer was a deep sea captain and land surveyor in Maine who was allied with his brother in his map making work. Four sons. The only daughter, Miss Clara Parsons Greenleaf became the wife of Eleazer Alley Jenks, a son of Dea. William Jenks of the Portland First Parish. Jenks was a printer and proprietor of "Jenks Gazette," a newspaper printed in Portland. Before me is a manuscript letter dated Nov. 31, 1804, never having been printed. It seems that William King, then residing in Bath, a homiopathic fellow who was running the mercancy of the District of Maine, becoming the first governor of the new State in 1820, had demanded the name of the author of a communication that had appeared in Jenks' paper, thus showing editors of papers a century had their troubles as now and what we do live after us. Editor Jenks was drowned on Richmond's Island, Cape Elizabeth. The sloop "Charles" sailing from Boston, Mass., July 18, 1807, containing eighteen passengers most of whom were drowned.

In 1816 appeared Mr. Greenleaf's first map with his "Statistical View of Maine" and in 1839 he published his second great work with an atlas of seven plates "the best made to that date." He located his home in the wilderness at Williamsburg, seventeen miles north east of Dover in Piscata-quis county. Just previous to his settling down at Williamsburg he resided in the town of Andover. He departed this life March 29th, 1834, aged 56 years, and his remains were interred upon his farm.

Judge Smith closes his memorial work with a

BIOGRAPHY OF THE MAPS OF MAINE.

It comprises one hundred and fifty two references which fills fifteen pages of the work.

In 1838 a map of Oxford County about 5x3 feet was prepared with many of the villages on a large scale which is a valuable work in those interested in the topography of the county and every town office should possess a copy.
It is far superior as a work of reference to the County Atlas of 1859, which presents the county by towns only.

In 1861 there was published in Portland what was then termed "A New Plan of Maine" with statistics for each town, city and county comprising 200 pages arranged in book form. The work is valuable for its general information and particularly as a work for reference.

The Fryeburg registry consists of 102 well preserved volumes of records and was opened January 13th, A. D.
1800, or the first entry was made on that date with James Osgood as register who received the one vote in Bethel for the position at the time of the first election to which reference has been made. His record book was probably kept at his residence—wherever that was—while the Probate court papers and books were kept in a pair of saddle bags most of the time when not in actual use at some bar-room, as the court was moved from place to place, saddle bags being something still remembered by our oldest citizens. The registry books are well indexed—much better by far than many of our town histories.

Thomas Moulton Esq. compiled the history of the town of Porter in 1879—a valuable little work of 92 pages. He gives the names of the Fryeburg registers as follows:
James Osgood.
John Bradley.
Daniel Clement.
Richard Clement.
James O. McMillan.
Asa Charles, and Seymour Hobbs.

In 1820, when the district of Maine was made a State, Daniel Clement was serving as register and he was continued till 1841, and it may be a year longer.

In 1843 James O. McMillan was serving.

In 1894 Seymour C. Hobbs was serving.

In 1899 Elbridge G. Osgood was serving.

In 1901 Eckley Ballard was serving, who is a native of the town, and is now register and custodian of the record books and office building.

For the 110 years that have passed since the office was created the entries have been about one per day—not a laborious amount of work for each day to discharge the requirements of the office.

The present incumbent seems to be "up to date" in matters pertaining to the situation and carries the honors with ease. To find him "at home" it is well to send a post card in advance.
His delights in pointing out the hidden things of the office. If you are not in a hurry he will tell you a story; if you are he will lend you a helping hand.
It is just the same with him let it be whatever way it will for it is a satisfying office.

"Blow ye winds east, blow ye west, Whichever way, that way is best."

Mr. Higgins came to West Paris about two years ago, and since that time has worked for the Paris Mfg. Co. Mrs. Higgins is the daughter of Will F. and Mary Merrill and has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Carroll Danks for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Higgins have the best wishes of many friends.

EAST SUMMER.

Mr. Wagon, the wife of H. C. Danks' hired man, is an expert in what her name, because a lot of art among her girls—the art of styling, she takes the most of it as taken from the sharp ends of, and gives it to the girls, while the neighborhood young ladies look on with wonder and admiration. But their amazement vanishes as they see the speed with which the hair is done. Each through her fingers she takes a part of hair to be in a day, while doing her hair, and taking excellent care of her silver hair, she does not let her hair get a day without, as that is the kind that is used in her hair.

The black hair is abundant about here, and are very close and curly. Several young men in the employ of the government have been surveyed in this vicinity.

The residents of Hall House which make up the active, working body of the settlement number about forty. The majority of these are college people. Their expenses are defrayed by themselves under the direction of a house committee on the plan of a cooperative club. The women of the house, the men in the Men's Club building, the boys in the Boys' Club building, while the families in residence occupy space in the Hall House apartments. Very few of the residents receive any salaries but rather are engaged in self-sustaining occupations and give their leisure time to the house.

One hundred and fifty people come each week to Hall House either as teachers, visitors or directors of clubs. Many of these non-residents give much time and valuable service. There are on an average of 2500 people who come to Hall House each week during the winter months, either as members of an organization or parts of an audience, this attendance varying from year to year only as it is limited by available space.

Classes for adults coming together first upon a social basis and finally organized for the acquisition of professional knowledge have met at Hall House for three terms a year during the eight-term years of its history. A lesser number of classes is continued for the fourth term every summer. The most popular and continuous courses have been in literature, languages, history, mathematics, drawing and painting. A helpful supplement of the college extension courses has been the summer school which was held for two years in the buildings of Rockford College at Rockford, Ill.

There are various clubs in connection with Hall House among which are the Shakespeare Club which grew from a Shakespeare class conducted by Miss Stern. In this club the Shakespeare plays are made the chief subjects of study. Another club is the Electrical Club, the membership consisting of men who are occupied in electrical work. This club organizes a room of its own, is open every evening and is equipped with some valuable apparatus purchased by the members. The Hall House Women's Club was organized in 1901 with twelve members at the end of its nineteenth year of work it has a membership of three hundred and fifty. This club is housed in a building of its own in which it has extensive control of a library and sewing room and a large hall which seats eight hundred people. This club meets each Wednesday with an average attendance of about one hundred, the number being swelled to two hundred fifty and three hundred on social occasions. Entertainment, which are very generous, are given by the entertainment committee for the purpose of raising money for the different purposes for which the club contributes. A Men's Club was organized in 1903 and incorporated under the State law. The club is composed of young men over 18 years of age and has a membership of about fifty. They have billiard and pool tables, a reading room, shower bath, a reading room with periodicals and a small library. The aims of the club are both recreative and educational and so most of the members are of college age. The club has already taken active interest in connection with the house.

The Boys' Club has a membership of twelve hundred, occupying their own building which is equipped with bowling alley, billiard tables, athletic apparatus, shops for working iron, wood and painting, a library, a study room, games and chess room. This club supports a band of sixty pieces and meets for practice two evenings a week. There are also social clubs which meet weekly at Hall House. These are composed of young people who meet their own officers and prepare their own programs under the approval of their directors. These are social in character but have occasional literary programs, some giving plays and holding debates. One of the outstanding features in connection with Hall House is the Labor Museum, which exists as the result of efforts made to bridge the past life in Europe with American experience in such a way as to give both some meaning and sense of relation. This museum was, in the first instance, suggested by many people in the neighborhood who had come directly from various places in Southern Europe in which industrial processes are still carried on by the most primitive methods. There it is not exposed to the same conditions as in the United States and England.

The Holman Cole place at North Woodstock occupied by Lawrence W. Cole has been sold to Collins Abbott and is now occupied by Granville Abbott of Bryant's Pond. Mr. Cole has moved to the Emerson Billings place in Bryant's Pond.

Rev. J. B. Gossens a former pastor here of the Baptist church, occupied the pulpit here August 7th. Mr. Gossens is now holding the position of State Missionary in the church. Delphus Brooks has vacated his place as News Hill and has moved to Yarmouth where he has a post office as clerk.

Percy J. Barker of Wakefield is passing a three weeks' vacation here with his parents.

The buildings on the North Paris road at South Woodstock, known as the Richard Robbins place were destroyed by fire July 26th. Lightning struck the barn and the flames spread all through it instantly. Not much was saved. It was occupied by the family. House and barn insured for $500.

The community was notified here last Tuesday night by the death of Mrs. Charles Powers. She has been in poor health for some time but died quite suddenly at the last. She leaves a husband, one son, two daughters and three granddaughters beside many friends to mourn her loss.

with the simplest of needles. There were found at least four varieties of these primitive methods of spinning and at least three distinct variations of the same spindle. These seven methods have been arranged into historic sequence and order and the whole has been connected with the present method of factory spinning. The same has been done in connection with weaving, and on every Saturday evening an exhibit is made of these various forms of labor in the textile industry. Within one room and during one evening the Syrian, the Greek, the Italian, the Slav, the German and the Celt enable the casual observer to see that there is no break in orderly evolution, if he looks at history from the industrial standpoint.

From the beginning the constant effort of Hall House has been to hand over to the public authority as many of the activities which it had initiated as was found practical. Three shower baths had been maintained in the basement of the house for the use of the neighborhood and offered some experience and argument for the erection of the first public bath house in Chicago, which was built on a neighboring street and opened under the care of the Board of Health. The reading room and public library station which was begun in the House continued only a block away. The lending collection of pictures has become incorporated into the Public School Art Society of Chicago. The summer classes in wood work and metal, formerly maintained at Hall House have been made a part of the public school system. In short many are the public utilities enjoyed today by the city of Chicago which were inspired in the minds of the residents of Hall House and given their final form there.

So far as Hall House residents have been identified with public offices, it has been in the attempt both to interpret the need of the neighborhood to public bodies and to identify the neighborhood energies with civic efforts. This has been true of one resident as a member of the State Board of Charities, with the work of another resident as a member of the Chicago Board of Health, and with the efforts of four other residents in their official connection with the Juvenile Court of Cook County. It is perhaps significant that the only political office ever sought from the city by a resident of Hall House was that of garbage inspector for the nineteenth ward. Miss Adams herself held the office of inspector of the law combined with the cooperation of the neighborhood, brought about a great improvement in the cleanliness and comfort of the neighborhood.

But why try to summarize. Time and space will not permit even a passing reference of the different movements toward reform that have taken their initiative at Hall House. The present cannot foresee nor can future history record the great good which is being accomplished by the active earnest residents of Hall House, and who can say but that the ripples set in motion by that Halsted street settlement shall not vibrate until their power for good shall have reached all the shores of this land.

Blood Humors

Commonly cause pimples, boils, hives, eczema or salt rheum, or some other form of eruption, but sometimes they exist in the system, indicated by feelings of weakness, languor, loss of appetite, or general debility, without causing any breaking out.

They are expelled and the whole system is renovated, strengthened and toned by

FAKE.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart,

And speak in different tongues and have no thought

Each of the other's being, and no heed; and these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands

Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death,

And all unconsciously shape every act and bend each wandering step to this one end,—

That, one day, out of the darkness they shall meet

And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life

So nearly side by side, that should one turn

Ever so little space to left or right

They need but stand acknowledged face to face,

And yet, with wistful eyes they never meet,

With groping hands that never clasp, and lips

Falling in vain to ears that never hear, They seek each other all their weary days

And die unsatisfied—and this is Fate!

UNIVERSITY OF MAINE.

The presidency of the University of Maine was tendered to Dr. Robert J. Alay of Indianapolis, state superintendent of instruction, by vote of the trustees at a special meeting Saturday in Portland, Dr. Alay now has the matter under consideration.

The resignation of Pres. George Emory Fellows, tendered last June, will go into effect September 1.

The trustees voted that Dean J. N. Hart of the university act as president, beginning Sept. 1. State Dairy Inspector Leon P. Merrill was elected to take charge of the extension work in the agricultural department.

The trustees decided to make some modifications in the system of book-keeping in line with suggestions made by State Auditor Hatch and elected Frank E. Oak as assistant bookkeeper.

Dr. Robert Jackson Alay, president-elect of the University of Maine, is an authority on geometry, algebra and mathematics in general. He was born in Coal City, Ind., in 1863 and was educated at Valparaiso College and Indiana University.

He began his professional career as a country school teacher. Later he was instructor in several Indiana colleges. From 1888 to 1891 he was professor of mathematics at Indiana University.

He was on the faculty of Leland Stanford, Jr., University from 1894 to 1895 and has been editor-in-chief of leading educational publications. He is the author of a number of books.

NEW POSTOFFICE RULES.

Our postmaster formulates the following rules for the benefit of his patrons and that you may know what you may expect: No letters given-out until they have been received. If you don't get a letter or a paper on the day you expect it have the postmaster look through all the boxes and down the cellar also. It ought to be there somewhere and he likes to hunt for it just to please you. If your friend don't write save at the postmaster. He is to blame. If he tells you no, put on a grievous look and say there ought to be some. He is probably hiding your mail for the pleasure of having you call for it. Ask him to look again. If you are buying stamps make him lick them and put them on, that's his business.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elmina S. Tucker died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. T. White last Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. after a long and painful illness of more than a year. Four or five months ago she came here for a change in medical skill which proved beneficial although her trouble was beyond human skill.

Mrs. Tucker was the oldest of seven daughters who lived to grow up of Stephen and Hannah Watson and was born in Chichester, N. H., Feb. 29, 1839. She became the wife of Charles Tucker of London, N. H., the 10th of Jan. 1858 and they took their wedding journey in a team to Colebrook a pioneer town in the northern part of the state where a newly purchased farm awaited them and where they lived for 55 years. Four children were given to them, Fannie, the wife of Barnard O'Neil of Colebrook, N. H., Cyrus who died in infancy, Mrs. Anna W. White of this place and Clara C. wife of William S. Austin of South Paris. These with her husband and two granddaughters are left to mourn their loss. Also two sisters, Mrs. Abby J. Towle of Chichester, N. H., and Mrs. C. Austin Shelburne of Revere, Mass. Mrs. Tucker was highly respected among a host of friends and her Christian faith bore her up during her long illness. The remains were taken to Colebrook, Monday where the funeral service and interment will take place.

AMERICAN CHEESE EATERS.

WHETHER CUSTOMERS THAN GERMANS FOR MAKING OF ROQUEFORT CHEESE.

Cheese-making in France has increased considerably in the last few years and the progress made in the industry in general has been phenomenal, according to United States Consul William Hunt of St. Etienne, France. He says that American held first rank among foreign customers of Roquefort cheese, not even herring Germany. In the making of Roquefort cheese last year 48,347,699 quarts of sheep's milk were used in 518 dairies throughout the department of Aveyron and neighboring departments. This was valued at $1,700,000, and made about 20,700,000 pounds of Roquefort cheese, valued at $3,800,000.

The United States imported from St. Etienne last year 143,342 worth.

Owing to improvements in the methods of handling the cheese in the caves and rigid inspection of the dairies and the quality of milk furnished the Roquefort cheese is now much better than it was a few years ago, the consul adds.

Illusions.

It is true we labor under many illusions, but if these were to be done away with we should hardly deem it worth our while to labor at all. Almost none of the things which man so ardently pursues in the belief that they will make him happier is really capable of doing so, and yet it is essential that he keep up the pursuit for the sake of what he incidentally achieves in behalf of daily life.

The illusions we labor under partake, in due, of the nature of sanitary conditions, though they chiefly affect the health of the spirit, and by that have no municipal functionary appointed to look vigilantly after them. Nor, in fact, do they need any such place-providence has been so kind as to see to it that illusions we shall always have.—Tuck.

Pineapple Omelet.

Cook together in a frying pan two tablespoons each sugar and butter. Do not allow the heat to burn. Stir into this mix a cupful shredded pineapple sweetened to taste, a pinch of salt and the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Lastly fold in the stiffly whipped whites of the eggs, cook a moment or two, then set the pan in the oven and bake until the eggs are puffed and set. Turn out on a hot platter, sprinkle with sugar and serve hot.

POLITICS GETTING
MIGHTY HOT

Down in Androscoggin County.

They are getting some pretty hot stuff handed out to them on the political platter down in 'ecoggin county, and it begins to look as though all of the political chicanery is not confined to the Republican party, that not all the evils known to man or beast are cured when the reins of government are handed over to the all-wise and ever-to-be-trusted Democrats.

At a Republican rally at Mechanic Falls, Tuesday evening Geo. McCarty Esq. of Lewiston, Republican candidate for County Attorney in reference to Democratic County Treasurer Millett, whose home is at Mechanic Falls and who was in the audience charged him with mutilating and altering his books.

Jumping to his feet from his seat in the rear of the hall County Treasurer Millett spoke in a loud voice saying, "That's a lie, Mr. McCarty, you know that's a lie. I can prove it."

Mr. McCarty: "I am not through yet. I've something more to say to you." Mr. Millett resumed his seat, "It's a strong statement which I just made," resumed Mr. McCarty, "and to be sure that I make it clear with you I repeat it, I say that you altered your records from as they appeared the first of May."

Mr. Millett—"That's not so." Mr. McCarty not heeding the remark, "Now about this case. It's getting interesting and I am glad it is. I say that an examination of the books by one who is not even an expert in the matters will disclose the fact that the ink is hardly dry. Go see for yourselves. Accept Mr. Millett's invitation and get a little more information on a department of County administration that up to the present has not been questioned. Mr. Millett, it was hardly necessary for you to alter your records to bolster up a defense to this charge. You could have called the entry of July 8th, a credit to Fieris Toulouse if you so desired and no one could hardly dispute the same. The name so entered was not decipherable. But when you deliberately alter your records by recent additions do you wonder we suspect and the people suspect, that all is not honest and above board?"
